To obtain warranty service the customer will need to provide deView with (1) the model and serial number of the defective Product, (2) the date of shipment, purchase order number, or invoice number, and (3) details of the Product defect. After a RMA number is issued, the Product must be packaged securely in the original or other suitable shipping package to ensure that it will not be damaged in transit, and the RMA number prominently marked on the outside of the package. The defective Product should then be returned to deView Electronics, 708 Valley Ridge Circle, Suite 1, Lewisville, Texas 75057. The customer is responsible for the cost of in-bound shipping to deView. Products sent COD will be rejected. Products shall be insured by the customer, and deView will not be responsible for any packages or Products that are lost or damaged in transit to deView. The customer will need to provide deView with the model number of the defective Product, a purchase order or invoice number, and a detailed description of the Product defect. If notice is received from the customer on or before ninety (90) days after the invoice date for the defective Product, deView will send as a replacement for the defective Product an A-Stock (new, never sold) Product of equal or great value and performance. If notice is received later than ninety (90) days after the invoice date deView reserves the right to send a replacement Product that is A-Stock or B-Stock, as determined by deView in its sole discretion. The customer must return the defective Product to deView using the procedure described above under "Obtaining Warranty Service." The customer will not receive credit for the defective Product until that Product is received by deView.
